Purpose of This Manual

This manual is the operating book for the VEZA studio. It walks the atelier team through every screen they will meet inside the admin area — from signing in, to publishing a new collection, to sending the monthly letter.

A NOTE ON ROLES

The studio is opened by any staff member whose account carries the admin flag. The founder — Khanyisile Chiganze — has full access. Additional accounts can be promoted from the Supabase user table by the technical operator, one row at a time.

The admin dashboard — the map of the studio.

Signing In to the Studio

Two doors lead into the atelier. The public sign-in page (linked from the account icon) accepts any client. The discreet 'Studio access' link — in the footer and on the account page — leads to /studio, which is the door reserved for the team.

The Studio Access page. Charcoal and gold, deliberately quiet.

01

Open /studio

Or click 'Studio access' from the footer. The public routes are not shown here.

02

Enter atelier credentials

The email issued to you by the founder, and your password. Never share these outside VEZA.

03

Sign in

You are taken to the studio dashboard, unless a password change is required (see next section).

First Login & Password Change

New atelier accounts are seeded with a temporary password and a flag asking you to replace it on first sign-in. When the flag is present, the studio quietly re-routes you to /change-password after login and will not release you into the admin until a new password is chosen.

The forced password-change screen. Minimum ten characters.

SECURITY HOUSEKEEPING

Choose a password unique to VEZA. The atelier's technical operator never asks for your password by email — if you receive such a request, forward it and change your password immediately.

The Studio Dashboard

The dashboard shows the shape of the studio at a glance — product counts, pending orders, commissions awaiting a reply, journal drafts. It also carries the monthly newsletter reminder: if no letter has been sent in the last thirty days, a gentle banner appears here inviting you to compose one.

Collections & Launches

Collections live under Admin → Collections. Each has a title, a small story, a hero image, a status (draft, coming soon, live), and — when coming soon — a launch_at timestamp that powers the countdown card on the public site.

Admin → Collections. Editable rows, drag-to-sort ordering.

01

Draft the story

A short paragraph — landscape, motif, and the mood the pieces carry.

02

Set the status

'Coming soon' shows the collection on the index with a countdown; 'live' opens it for purchase.

03

Fix the launch date

Enter the launch as an ISO timestamp — for the International Fashion Week Collection this is 2026-09-10T00:00:00+02:00.

Products

Each product carries name, slug, price, currency, materials, dimensions, care notes, and one to six photographs. A product cannot be marked 'Published' until it has at least one image and a description — the studio enforces this.

Admin → Products. Drafts and published pieces sit alongside each other.

REFINING COPY

Beside the description field is a small 'Refine with AI' link. It sends your rough notes through Lovable AI (Gemini 2.5 Flash) and returns a polished draft in VEZA's editorial voice. You always confirm before it replaces your text.

01

Fill in the essentials

Name, slug, price, stone, materials. Slugs are auto-generated from the name and can be edited.

02

Choose photographs

Between one and six. Landscape and portrait mix well; the first image is the cover.

03

Publish

Only then does 'Published' become permissible. Featured products appear on the home page.

Media Gallery

The gallery is the single home for every image used across the site. Drag files in, or click to select — up to twenty per batch. The studio compresses each image to WebP at up to 1920px on the long edge, and computes a SHA-256 hash to skip duplicates automatically.

Admin → Gallery. Bulk upload with client-side compression and dedupe.

ALT TEXT IS NOT OPTIONAL

Every image carries alt text — a short, descriptive sentence for readers using screen readers, and for search engines. Edit alt inline in the gallery grid; changes save on blur.

Orders & Abandoned Carts

Orders arrive under Admin → Orders. Each row shows the buyer, the pieces, the courier chosen, and the current stage. Alongside completed orders sits an 'Abandoned' tab: carts that started to check out but did not finish — useful for a gentle follow-up email.

Admin → Orders. Filter by stage; open a row to see the delivery details.

01

Confirm receipt

Move the order to 'In the atelier' once the piece begins its journey through the workshop.

02

Dispatch

Enter the courier tracking number when the parcel leaves. The client's account timeline updates automatically.

03

Close

Mark 'Delivered' when the courier confirms delivery. A short thank-you note is a lovely closing gesture.

Bespoke Commissions

Bespoke enquiries land under Admin → Commissions. Each carries the client's brief, budget, references, and a small thread for the atelier's replies. Khanyisile responds to every commission personally.

Admin → Commissions. New requests are highlighted at the top.

The Newsletter

The atelier writes a letter to the private list each month. The composer supports a headline, a preheader, and a small deck of blocks — text, image, and quote. A live preview on the right shows how the letter looks in an email client, in VEZA's ivory-and-gold palette.

Admin → Newsletter. Subscribers, drafts, and export tools sit in the left rail.

The composer. Blocks compose from top to bottom; the right pane is a live email preview.

SENDING

If a Resend API key is configured on the backend, 'Send now' delivers to the active list, substituting the unsubscribe token per recipient. Without a key, export the HTML and CSV and send via an external provider — the unsubscribe links remain valid.

The Studio Calendar

The calendar gathers three streams into one month view — newsletters sent and scheduled, collection launches, and a monthly ‘letter due’ marker on the preferred send-day of the month (configurable in the newsletter settings).

Settings & Payments

Settings is the small back-room of the studio. Here the atelier sets its public contact details and — under ‘Payments’ — activates card payments through Stripe. The publishable key is entered here; the secret key must be added to the backend secrets store by the technical operator.

Admin → Settings. Contact, addresses, and payments live here.

Payments section. Toggle activation once both keys are in place.

A NOTE ON SECRET KEYS

The Stripe secret key is never entered into the studio interface — it is stored in the backend secrets store and read only by the server-side checkout function. If in doubt, ask the technical operator.

Downloading These Guides

Both of these guides live in the site itself and can be re-downloaded at any time from within the atelier — the Client Guide from a small card on the client Account page, and this Studio Manual from the corresponding card on the studio Dashboard.
